I have been instructed to write a letter explaining my living situations. I currently live with my sister Jacklyn Robertson. Living with her is much more stable than where I was before. I've been living with my parents until May of 2014. My mom had ^{both} then died and it was just my dad and I. I continued to live with him until January 2015, I ended up moving in with my mom's friend. This continued for about 5 1/2 - 6 months.

So around June my sister decided I should live with her because it was a better environment than the other 2 living situations. Living with my dad was okay in the beginning but soon worsened. He ended up losing his job in July 2014, and we were basically living off unemployment and my social security. It was getting very difficult to live with him because I was basically raising myself. Staying / Living with my mom's friend was fine but I still found myself very depressed. It never felt right there, I always felt like a burden. I'm very happy where I live now and I'm so glad my sister came and got guardianship of me. Anyways, that's basically my living situations in the last year. I plan on staying here. - Lorri Dye
