To whom it may concern

I have seen Lasha Shephard grow up so much this past school year from start to finish. She started off strong by staying committed and working to achieve the goals she set for herself. But once she found out she was ineligible there was a shift in Lasha. She lost the structure in which sports gives her and we saw how it affected her overall performance in school. The light came on towards year end and through summer. Lasha has worked hard in night and summer school to recover missed credits. She has worked out and spent time training younger kids over the summer in volleyball. She showed she can be committed and achieve the goals she sets her mind to. Lasha works well with structure and thrives when playing. I feel that if she is able to maintain her grades to the standards of Grant Student athletes then she will show us the all the phenomenal student athlete we know she can be. I hope you will consider this in making your decision.

Thank you,
