To whom this may concern:

I am writing this letter to explain why I am living with my sister for the school year. The environment that I was living in wasn't the best for me. My parents did not provide an adequate, prosperous environment for me. I didn't feel like I could be successful. I was constantly put down and repressed and hushed when standing up for myself.

My older sister always gave me confidence and believed in myself. She herself had been subject to my parents antics, but despite that fact became a successful athlete and student. When she moved into a house, more than big enough to give me a proper home, it became an option for me to stay with her. Here I feel I can concentrate on my academics and athletics.

My sister and I thought it would be a great experience for me to live in a different environment and try out a new school. My sister went to California for her junior year and I thought it'd be cool if I could do the same. I've played soccer since I was little and I'd love to continue and play this year as well. I think it would be a good experience for me to play with new girls and give me an idea of what college is going to be like. Since I haven't been able to play yet, I have been going to all of the practices and watching. Coach Pio and all the girls would love it if I could play. Thank you for your consideration.
