To Whom It May Concern,

It brings be great joy to write this letter of support on behalf of Joe Rounsville. Joe is a sweet, kind, and helpful student who has had a difficult life thus far. Joe has lived the majority of his life in the inner city where gangs, crime, and death are an everyday reality. Joe has made some less than wonderful choices over the past few years, but has over the past year began to turn his life around. Joe has struggled at school, but is now receiving support from a team of teachers and is accepting that support with great enthusiasm. Joe has spend the summer working at McDonald's and is thriving at his job. Joe has to support him self and lives independently from his family. Joe is now interested in playing football. I believe with my entire heart, that this experience will be life changing for Joe. Joe will now be apart of something larger than himself. He will be committed to a group of young men who make good choices, work hard, and stay out of trouble. These student athletes will surround Joe with positive role modeling. After reading this letter, if you have more questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me directly.

Sincerely,

Michelle Prudden
