I met Stanley Chee for the first time on August 3rd. He was on his way to our church's youth camp. He had just arrived back in Oregon the previous week. Stanley did very well in the youth camp. He made many new friends and made a new commitment to stay in the youth program and continue to attend our church.

I had heard things about Stanley, and honestly am glad that he is nothing like what I expected. He has been with us in our home now since August 23rd. He has been respectful, kind and very helpful around the house and on the farm. He has acted just the opposite of what I had expected from a child coming out of his background and circumstances. It seems that he is thriving in a new and safe environment where he can grow. He has committed to stay in school and is looking forward to playing on the high school football team where is excited to make a difference as a team player.

He has shown that he is willing to submit to our rules regarding all of our children and family of which he is now a part.

When we met Stanley he wanted to turn over a new leaf and make a new life for himself. He wanted to do things right and get his life on track. He has shown through his actions and his attitude that he is working hard at doing just that.

We are very happy to help Stanley on his new journey in life and are looking forward to watching him grow here, in the youth group and in his walk as a young Christian man.
