

To whom it may concern,

Our son Devon Atterberry has had ups and downs with his grades, but this last year he really got off track and was making very poor decisions for himself! We had allowed a friend of his to come and live with us as his friend had nowhere else to go and it was at this point Devon began going downhill. After the friend left our home and Devon began his summer job he did a complete turn around and was attending summer school during the day and working at night 7pm to 7am Monday thru Saturday. We believe that Devon has had a real dose of reality and has realized that he is running out of time to get his priorities in order to graduate. Devon is working very hard to complete all past failed classes and to stay up to speed in his current classes. We fully support Devon and will do all we can to see him succeed and graduate come June. Football has always been Devon's first love and a drive force in his life. He is extremely motivated to do what has to be done so that he can play in his senior year. We appreciate and thank you for your time. We hope that you can see the potential in our son that we and all his educators see in him. We will stand behind whatever decision you make.

Sincerely,
