Comments: This is a feasible plan so that David can be caught up with his credits and graduate with his class. He is willing to do all of this extra work to be on track because academics are important to him. It is unfortunate that he is in essence being “punished”, though no fault of his own, but simply because the school that he went to last year was not accredited and the implications of this were not explained to him or his mom. I think this plan shows David’s desire and willingness to do all he can to be eligible to play basketball.

Also, David is going in for extra help from his math teacher and his basketball coach has enlisted
