To whom it may concern,

I Walter Ell (Emalee's father) did not like the idea of her switching schools to St. Paul from Newberg. I didn't feel that it would help her out educationally to start over again. I had not realized how depressed she was in her old school , until she started at St. Paul. From the day she started at St. Paul she was a different person at home. Instead of just going up to her room when she got home, she was downstairs waiting to talk about her day with a renewed glow on her face. It has now been almost two weeks since she started class and I can see how excited she is to go to school and she is looking forward to extracurricular activities. As a parent I can't begin to tell you how it warms my heart to see my daughter back to herself and enjoying life again. I am so glad that I let her and her mom talk me into letting her switch to St. Paul.

Thank You

Walter Ell
