

To whom it may concern,

I'm writing in regards to Inary aka Suanny's academic progress, as my daughter I attest that school last year was very hard.

Last year was probably the hardest for her as her being the oldest and wanting to help mom with everything. She felt a sense of responsibility with her family after her father and I separated. We divorced last year, moved and struggled to get our family into a new routine after 13 years of marriage and thus her studies lowered dramatically.

She has put a lot of effort this year toward achieving a great deal of improvement and I have noticed it. Last year I can say she barely passed her classes but this year I have seen her more motivated than ever to excel in all that she puts her mind to it. One of those goals being sports, it helps her with reducing her stress, disciplines her and has created a sense of purpose, taught her to work collaboratively with her peer; she has raised her grades in such a way that I'm literally blown out of the water. I am very impressed and proud of her for pursuing her dreams and goals.

I have confidence that she will continue to be a great young lady that will add value to the team and the community.

Thank you for allowing her the opportunity to be part of the varsity team. This is one of her proudest moments in high school and she is very committed to her sports.

Sincerely,
Suanny Cruz
