

To whom it may concern,

I am writing this letter on behalf of my son Kobey Basom. Kobey is an amazing kid that has been having a rough time in school this year, he has never had a history of these kind of issues. A series of events have caused him to fall into a depression and has developed anxiety. His dad was arrested and will be spending years in prison. His great grandfather who he loved deeply passed away of heart disease. His aunt also passed away of brain cancer. His girlfriend of three years broke up with him. The hardest news he has received recently has been his papa, whom has been his best friend growing up, has found out he has cancer. These events have taken a toll on his mental stability and have caused him to develop stress induced insomnia. This has resulted in his grades dropping, responsibilities not being taken care of at home, and him just not being himself. Kobey is a mentally strong individual and can normally handle a lot of stress. Kobey lives to play baseball, and I am concerned of his well being and the path he may choose to take if he does not get to play his beloved sport.

Thank you,
Alissa Volker
